How will your leadership contribute to the realization of St. Paul's new Vision and Mission:
My professional life focuses on concise, effective communication. The most important skill is the willingness to listen to what others say and believe, and to be able to transmit that with clarity, and to synthesize information from many sources into a whole.

Additional pertinent information: I want St. Paul's to be in the forefront of diocesan leadership, and to live up to its new mission statement.

Past and present church-related activities; and ministries within and outside the Church:
I've been involved in: Youth Mission Trips (chaperone 2 years); Ushering (3 years); Music & Worship contemporary band (2 years); 8th grade Confirmation teacher (1 year); Community Fellowship—fish fries, cookouts, dance-a-thons, car washes, dinners, etc.!

How will your leadership contribute to the realization of St. Paul's new Vision and Mission:
I will continue to: work with our contemporary music & worship band and develop it as an outreach tool; work with our youth through mission trips, community service and education. I will encourage everyone to find the "thing" at St. Paul's to become involved with. Our St. Paul's community is a natural extension of our daily lives and our service will grow into rewarding experiences.

My wife and I serve as greeters. I am on the LEM/Lector team. My children are active in EYC and Sunday School. My wife is a co-teacher of the 7th grade Confirmation class.

How will your leadership contribute to the realization of St. Paul's new Vision and Mission:
In order to fulfill St. Paul's mission of being the most welcoming congregation for all generations, I think we need to foster and develop intergenerational ties within the St. Paul's community. I see a division between the 8:45 and the 10:30 service attendees—there is little crossover. I know that people have preferences, but there is value in both services that everyone can appreciate.
